

QLD Branch Breakfast

“Flood, earthquake or lawsuit – are you managing your risk or crossing your fingers?”

Felicity Cooper
Executive Director,
Advisory
Ernst & Young

Recent natural disasters in Queensland, New Zealand and Japan bring to light that events beyond our control can intrude on our business at any time, without warning. While we may understand that risk exists, do we understand the impact it can have and how to manage risk?

The QLD branch of AusBiotech is pleased to host the first of this year's Ernst & Young Breakfast Series. Our speakers will discuss elements of risk that can impact on your business, including your intellectual property. If you have not recently considered your risk-management strategy, this breakfast is essential to you.

Felicity Cooper, Executive Director, Advisory, Ernst & Young

Felicity has over 20 years' experience business consulting, focusing on commercial, financial and technology consulting with key areas of expertise including business continuity and enterprise risk management. Felicity also has experience in large-scale business and technology transformation. Felicity has worked across a number of industries, including biotechnology.

Dr Dimitrios Eliades, Barrister-at-Law.

Dimitrios answered a call to the Brisbane Bar in October 1998, where he is now in private practice exclusively in the field of intellectual property.

Dr Dimitrios Eliades
Barrister-at-Law

He has for a number of years authored the LexisNexis Butterworths update bulletins in Patent Law, Trade Mark Law, Copyrights and Designs, as well as being an author and editor in a number of other intellectual property and information technology publications. Dimitrios co-authored a second edition of Professor Anne Fitzgerald's helpful publication Intellectual Property in the Thomson Reuters Nutshell series.

Dimitrios is an adjunct lecturer at the Queensland University of Technology, where he teaches to masters students in aspects of the IP rights, their commercialisation and litigation.

In his practice, he has been briefed to advise various state government departments in the area of intellectual property and has received consultation briefs from the Federal Government's Advisory Council on Intellectual Property (ACIP). As a barrister, Dimitrios is a member of the Technology and Intellectual Property Sub-Committee of the Solicitor's Queensland Law Society.

Date: Thursday 14 April 2011
Time: 7.00 - 9.00am
Venue: The Queens Arm Hotel
64 James Street
New Farm, Queensland

Cost: AusBiotech Members $44.00
Non-Members $66.00
AusBiotech Students $33.00

Proudly supported by:

Register by COB Monday 11 April 2011

CLICK HERE TO REGISTER